

Help! Help! I'm Falling

Thus cried the hair. And a kind neighbor came to the rescue with a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor. The hair was saved! This was because Ayer's Hair Vigor is a regular hair medicine. Falling hair is caused by a germ, and this medicine completely destroys these germs. Then the healthy scalp gives rich, healthy hair.

The crop will fool the knowing ones again this year. See how far this prediction is wrong.

There so many new laws which went into effect July 12th that you have to watch out or you will get into the hands of the law by breaking some of them.

The railroads in the State are carrying no advertisement in the papers from this date on only what they are paying cash rates for. This is better than the old way for newspapers but not the railroads.

If the hog law in the city has not been repealed, enforce it or take it off the books. Is it not strange how some people take delight in violating the law. Not to enforce any law bring it in disrepute.

If some one was to say there is ore enough tributary to Jefferson to last 1000 furnaces with a capacity of 1000 tons per day, some 500 to 1000 years, the doubting ones would not credit it for a moment. Yet such is the fact. If you don't believe it, wait and see.

Mayor Schmitz of San Francisco was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary. The mayor was convicted for extortion, and he is not the only official that would be in the pen if those who do not carry out the law were convicted.

The notice of raise on telephone rates on all business phones has not been received very agreeably by the patrons. At the rate every thing we use is climbing up, people will have to go back to the old primitive style of living.

The Rusk County News has issued a special edition in magazine form and with a specially designed litho cover. It has illustrations of everything of interest in the town and county, and a fine write up with it. Taken all together is a big thing for Henderson and Rusk county.

The unveiling of the monument by the 13 little girls dressed in white, representing the thirteen Southern States was a most beautiful sight. Purity and innocence unveiling a marble shaft, erected to the memory of the most faithful and patriotic soldiers the world ever saw was both fitting and appropriate.

One of our former prominent and wealthy citizens while in the city recently said: "If you get navigation I will build up Jefferson." We believe if some of our wealthy citizens had remained in Jefferson instead of leaving as soon as they had made their wealth, we would not have to build up, but now would be ahead of any town in this part of the state.

In commenting on erasing the name of Jefferson Davis from the marble in the great stone bridge near Washington, erected during the time he was Secretary of War, those who erased it thinks it was a great mistake, because the blank cause every one to ask who's name was there. Would they cut out the pages of history of the Mexican war, wherein he displayed such gallantry. It would be equally as proper.

Some of our exchanges are holding up to scorn citizens of their towns who have become wealthy there and are "cussing" these towns now that times are dull there. Land on them, fellows, they need it. The man who won't hold up for the town which supports him is a small potato, but far more deserving of censure is he who has enriched himself in a town and is always ready to disparage it—Honey Grove Signal.

Nearly every town can furnish a few men of this class, and they should praise the town and always speak well of it, yet they do not.

THE UNVEILING OF THE CONFEDERATE MONUMENT.

In every section of the South land the people are erecting monuments to the memory of the Southern soldiers who died in defense of their country. There is no disloyalty in this commemorating and perpetuating the memory of the gallant Southern soldiers. It is eminently proper that the private soldier should be honored. In no history can be found such gallantry as was displayed by the Southern soldiers during the four long years from 1861 to 65. It is a great pity that the heroism displayed by individual private soldier could not be given. Such a history would astonish the world. In the Revolutionary war the Southern soldier was noted for his unflinching gallantry in the war of 1812, it was the Southern soldiers who put old England to shame. In the war with Mexico it was the Southern soldier which made the flag of the nation float proudly over every victorious battlefield. It was the Southern soldier which made the proud, but cowardly Santa Anna beg for mercy. Wherever the Southern soldier has fought he has displayed a gallantry unsurpassed by any other soldier. He was as defiant in retreat as he was in advance. The monuments throughout the South but feebly convey the idea of his gallantry. No monument can be erected that would do him the honor and justice he deserves though it reached into the stately vaults, where from its summit the whispering of the angels could be heard. No tongue has yet been found which could picture him as he should be, the gallant Southern soldier boy. In peace he is as noble as he is valiant in battle. He would sing as he marched into the jaws of death. His patriotism put to shame the boasted patriotism of the civilized world. His gallantry surpassed the sparans of which so many fine things have been said. His heroic deeds would put to shame anything any Roman ever did. In truth and in fact, the Southern soldiers stand in a class to themselves. It is therefore eminently proper that a marble shaft should dot every hill top in sweet remembrance of the fidelity and patriotism unsurpassed in any age of the world's history. The greatest deed of valor committed by the South or an entirety is shown by the vast development of the country from the Potomac to the Rio Grande. This is but another evidence of the high sense of honor and unflinching integrity. While the South honors her dead by erecting the marble shaft, and in the spring time placing wreaths of flowers over the graves of the dead, yet this in no sense lessens the loyalty due the National Government. If necessary required it the Southern boy would show to the world that he inherited the great qualities of his forefathers. The loyalty to the national government today is as pure as lasting as it ever was. Every community should have a monument erected sacred to the memory of the Southern soldier.

We have been printing a good newspaper, a new newspaper, an enterprising newspaper, and up to date newspaper. We want to maintain these qualifications and publish a paper for which there need be no apology. Prices of material will not change and may go higher, and in order to make both ends meet, to say nothing of having a fair interest on investment required for successful newspaper business, we will be compelled to advance the price of the Herald, effective after July 1, 1907. After that date the subscription price will be $1.50 per year.—McComb (O.) Herald.

The above only shows that every newspaper will have to raise their price if they expect to keep up with the present rise in price on all class of material that is used in a printing office—from print paper down.

Our State University. An institution which is the pride of the people of Texas is our State University. It was founded to meet the needs and promote the welfare of our people. That the facilities which it affords are being appreciated is evidenced by the constantly increasing attendance from year to year. There is no reason why the young men and women of Texas should go out of the State to obtain a first-class education; and we are glad to say the trend is no longer in that direction. Being an institution of the commonwealth, the University of Texas prepares men and women for service to the State, and it believes that practical, common sense knowledge makes a good and useful citizen. In its several departments it is admirably equipped for meeting the educational needs of Texas. If any of our readers are interested in the work of the University, let them write for a catalog to Wilson Williams, Registrar, Austin.

MONUMENT AND PARK

THE CONFEDERATE SHAFT AND GROUNDS FORMALLY DELIVERED TO JEFFERSON.

SENATOR CULBERSON SPEAKS

Orator of the Occasion Addresses a Large Gathering—Little Girls Represent Southern Sisters.

Special to The Dallas News July 11.

Jefferson, Tex., July 10.—The unveiling of the Confederate monument this afternoon under the auspices of the Dick Taylor Camp was as brilliant as it was beautiful. The threatening rain in a measure marred the pleasure of those present.

Mrs. Gertrude Cartwright of Cass county delivered the monument and park to the ladies and people of Jefferson and Marion county. When a young lady, Mrs. Cartwright presented to the first company leaving Cass the flag of the company.

The unveiling was done by thirteen little girls dressed in white, representing the thirteen Confederate States.

Senator Culbertson was the orator of the occasion. His speech was received with great enthusiasm by the large gathering. In closing he said:

"My fellow citizens, as one whose dearest memories linger about you who loves you with an affection as abiding as the hills and whose precious deed will sleep forever in your midst, I congratulate you upon this day. It is worthy of your character as a people, and it is a beautiful and impressive tribute to the soldiers who battled for you in the 'red battle' or war. It is especially fitting that you should rear this memorial, for no community in the State responded to the call for arms in 1861 with more ardor or sent forth more daring soldiers than Jefferson.

Although its population and that of the surrounding country was small, it sent heroes to Virginia under Black, Clifton and Hood, to Tennessee and Georgia under Mabry and Ector and Ross, and to Arkansas and Louisiana under Waterhouse and Parsons and Lane and Walker and Polignac and Tom Green. Since then hundreds of gallant men who enlisted in other States have come among you. As types of these, still living, there is my friend Armistead, who served with Georgians; my friend Dawson, who served with Missourians; my friend DeWitt, who served with South Carolinians; my friend, Rowell and Atkins, who served with the Alabamians; my friends Fiedler and Ballou, who served with the Louisianians, one in the Crescent regiment and the other in the Washington Artillery. In every great battle of the war some of your citizens were engaged.

"In the cemetery on the hill, which your noble women have made the most beautiful in all the land, many of your comrades already sleep. Among these are Waterhouse, Mabry, Ochiltree, Crump, Sims, McKeenry, Burke, Little, Root, Claiborne, Harvey, Rowell, Cocke, the Culbertsons, the Gramhams, Alley, Slaughter, Walton, Tucker, Coyle, the Foscues, the Neys, Spelling, the Seaberrys, Goldenberg, Haywood, Todd, the Murphys, the Nicholls, Bagby, Reid, Briggs, Sabine, the Terry, Stanley, Steinlin, Hobdy, Hughes, McGarity, Eberstadt, Jones, Hagerty, Wright, Sanford, Donnan and Taylor.

"To these, and to those who will hereafter be laid beside them, this monument is erected. No monument, it is true, could fully proclaim and do justice to their courage, their loyalty, their patriotism and their sacrifices, for these will be more enduring than any heap of stone or granite of marble we may pile above their sacred dust. Yet this modest shaft will attest to future generations that you honored these brave men living and affectionately remember them now that they are gone, and that as Confederate soldiers they were part of armies, incomparable and matchless, the like of which were never known in any other age or land or climate."

Points to Consider When and Where to Buy.

Question.—First, from whom shall I buy?

Answer.—My neighbor and friend, P. Eldridge, because he has been in business at Jefferson since 1867.

Question.—What has he to sell?

Answer.—Everything. He has a large department store and there you can buy in the dry goods line anything from a paper of pins to a silk dress, and in the grocery line from 50¢ of any article to carload lots.

Question.—Why should I buy there?

Answer.—Because there you will get the most goods and quality, with polite attentions.

Question.—What guarantee have I of this?

Answer.—P. Eldridge's word which is good as the best gilded bond.

Question.—Who says this?

Answer.—The hundreds, nay thousands of people have and still are trading there for years and see no use for a change. The careful buyer will go directly to P. Eldridge.

Marion County Public Schools.

To the Editor of the JEFFERSON IMPECUATE.

It would seem a great benefit to the schools of our county to have in our county an organization of the school trustees of the county, so they could map out a systematic plan for the course of study in each school in the county. By this method any student in the country schools desiring to pursue their school work, farther than the home school would be in line to enter the "higher school" in Jefferson and pursue in a systematic way their work and prepare for teaching, or such other work as they may wish to take up. Jefferson will turn out several teachers from her schools this year that have been prepared the past session or term of school, and it is the policy of the trustees and teachers in the Jefferson school to continue to bring up the standard of education in the Jefferson school from year to year until Jefferson will stand second to no school in Texas in educational work. To do this we need the hearty and faithful co-operation of every citizen and school community in the county, which we hope to secure, and by an organization of the trustees of the county we feel that we can better plan this work and carry it forward successfully. Why should our girls and boys of Marion county go away to other counties to finish their school work? A great number of the young men and women of our county could, if need be, mount their horse in the morning and ride to Jefferson to school and return home in the evening. Many could spend the school days of the week in Jefferson at school and return home with those from home, or perhaps neighbors, who come to town Friday evenings or Saturdays to attend purchases or other business matters each week. A saving to fathers of much money, and a "home coming" of my boy or girl every week. The writer will be pleased to hear from each and every school trustee in the county about the organization of the trustees, promising them a faithful and hearty co-operation of the school trustees of district No. 3 to promote the upbuilding and advancement of the schools in the country districts as well as in town.

It is hoped that this suggestion will receive such interested responses from the trustees of our county that we will be justified in calling a meeting of the trustees at an early date to perfect an organization. Trustees, won't you write us soon, giving us your ideas and suggestions on this important question?

In contemplation of a gathering together of the trustees of the county the idea suggests a calling also the same date of all the teachers in the county, too, and appointing of a committee to map out and suggest the courses of study for the county to carry out this work.

As this is not the sole interest of the trustees and teachers of our county, but a much greater interest as it benefits a much greater number of citizens than those named. To the citizens of the county, we hope to be favored with hearty assistance and presence should we call a convention of the trustees and teachers of our county.

Sincerely yours, G. W. Brown, President School Board, Jefferson, Tex.

Elsewhere in this issue will be found the advertisement of the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas. The thirty-second session just past was a prosperous one; the enrollment exceeded five hundred and many applicants were turned away for lack of dormitory room.

This is the State Technological Institution, it stands for thorough training in practical sciences. It is doing much toward the development of the State in all industrial lines. Its energies are not confined to instruction of students in regular attendance. Its representatives take part in the organization of Farmers' Institutes, make investigations of insect pests, analysis of soils, the tests of seeds, and in many ways contribute to the interests of the farmer. The Texas Farmers' Congress will hold its regular meeting at the College July 23-24-25 and a large attendance of representative farmers is expected. This meeting affords excellent means of keeping the College in touch with those who are carrying out practically the principles of agriculture as taught in the section room.

LOCKET BROADWAY.

A few scattered raindrops visited the roadway on the first of the week which cheered the hearts of many discouraged farmers. At night fall they lay down to "snore" with the hope of being awakened in the dead hours of night by raindrops pelted on their rooftops, but alas they awoke only to find "Old Amos" peeping over the hills, shining on the same dry sand as the day before.

The protracted meeting will soon begin, which will result in many chickens getting their necks twisted and their bones examined.

Mr. John Kirkland and wife of Jefferson were pleasant visitors out in the country Sunday.

Nothing doing for the "Town Folks" on the glorious Fourth, only a little fish fry. Every body had a good time, especially those fishing on dry "day land."

Wake up, boys, and get wise, water melons are getting ripe on "Sandy Land" I am quite sure that Mr. Edar McAdoo is already aware of the fact, as I saw him with a "water melon smile" on his face yesterday.

Uncle Dave Akins is not married yet, but think he will be soon. While he was standing on the corner of John Vines' he held his long beard in his right hand and saluting his friends with his right hand, "Gentlemen, I am going to make one more vigorous effort." After several months' stay at the Tyler Commercial College, Mr. L. A. Brantley is visiting his friends and relatives on "Peanut Ridge."
